Mickey's ears are used to lock and open the clasp. . . . Something new is awaiting exurbanites looking forward to next summer's backyard cookouts: an outdoor grill that operates entirely on energy from the sun. No terrestrial fuel is required. It weighs less than 13 pounds in its carrying case. . . . A new dentist's drill may be destined to bring a new era of relaxation to dental offices. It is almost noiseless, emitting little more than a gentle hum, despite the fact that it operates at speeds of more than 300,000 r.p.m.

EDITORS AGREE — The ranks of journalism include scores of editors who are experts in a given field of business. These are business publication editors; some of them met recently under the auspices of the Business Paper

Editors Assn. and one man from each of several major industrial fields gave a 1963 forecast. Significantly, their prognostications jibe very closely with those given by most economists for this new year. Typically, editors in both steel and construction fields foresaw a very moderate increase over 1962 for their respective industries, while the man covering electronics predicted "rapid growth," with factory sales advancing to about $15.1 billion from $13.1 billion last year.

New Offices House Firm

Garver and Witzerman Advertising will be celebrating their 10th anniversary in new offices as sequel to a partnership that had its beginning in March, 1953.
 The firm has announced acquisition of new offices at 719 E. Wardlow Rd. in Long Beach. The recently completed building affords 2,300 square feet of office space.

THE LOCATION, stated Joe Witzerman, is ideal, "for we are practically at the geographic center of Long Beach, plus the completion of the San Diego Freeway, just one block away, will afford the agency immediate access to Orange County and the Los Angeles-Hollywood locale."

 The national agency services many of the leading firms of the area and has acquired direct wire service to major news outlets including the Associated Press and United Press International.

Many major promotions have been handled by the firm and the new facilities and added personnel will enable further expansion in this field, John Sarver, the other partner, said.
